

Eid Mubarak!

Eid al-Ghadeer

Islam

Eid ul-Ra-deer

Eid al-Ghadeer is a significant feast day for Shia Muslims. Shia Islam marks this as the time where the Prophet Muhammad [peace be upon him] announces Ali ibn Abi Talib, his cousin and son-in-law, as his successor. It is celebrated throughout the world with diverse customs.

Date

- Eid al-Ghadeer is celebrated on the 18th of Dhu Al-Hijjah on the Islamic Calendar and can vary from year to year on the Gregorian (Western) calendar.
- Check the Calendar Index for Religious Holidays during the current academic year for the exact date.

Greetings

To recognize the Eid with colleagues or friends, you can say, "Eid Mubarak", the Arabic greeting which means "blessed Eid."

Common Practices and Celebrations

- It is celebrated in different ways by Shia Muslims around the world.
- Observances include prayers, giving gifts, feasts, and reciting a special prayer giving praise and thanks to Allah [Glory to Him, the Exalted].

Common Dietary Restrictions

- Muslims often follow halal food guidelines. When planning an event, ask attendees about dietary preferences.
- Vegetarian and pescatarian meals without alcohol or cross-contamination can meet halal standards.

Impact to U-M Community

- Muslim colleagues and students may request to take the first day of the celebration off. Colleagues and remote students in Muslim countries will likely have a national holiday.
- When planning an event, note the location(s) of nearby reflection rooms for attendees.
